

The Story of One Family Before, During, and After Continental Flight 3407 Crashed

On February 12, 2009, Continental Flight 3407 crashed shortly after takeoff from Newark Liberty International Airport, killing all 50 people on board. This is the story of one family who was on that flight.

One on the Gr
file=eyJjdCI6Ih

by Karen Wielinski

★★★★★ 4.6

Language

File size

Text-to-Speech

Screen Reader

Enhanced typesetting

Word Wise

Print length

Lending

U0liwicyl6ImQwYThmM2VmYTQxODE1NTEifQ%3D%3D)

FREE

©2009 Amazon.com

file=eyJjdCI6IkhVek9KVHZ6dlExZ0ZHY2UxVTZDQ0g3UUxDbn

Before the Crash

The Davis family was excited for their trip to Buffalo. They were going to visit their grandparents for the weekend. The children, 10-year-old Sarah and 7-year-old Michael, were especially excited to see their cousins.

The family arrived at the airport early and checked in their bags. They then went to the gate and waited for their flight to be called. Sarah and Michael played games on their iPads while their parents, David and Susan, read the newspaper.

Finally, it was time to board the plane. The family said goodbye to their grandparents and made their way to their seats. Sarah and Michael sat next to the window, while David and Susan sat across the aisle.

The Crash

The plane took off and climbed into the air. Sarah and Michael looked out the window and watched the ground below them disappear. They were so excited to be on their way to Buffalo.

Suddenly, the plane hit a flock of geese. The impact caused the plane to lose control and it went into a nosedive. Sarah and Michael screamed as the plane plummeted towards the ground.

(<https://autobiography.deedeebook.com/book/Unveiling%20the%20>